Numb. 5065

FRIDAY, JULY 12, 1745.

Peterburgh, June 23.

THE Foreign Ministers at this Court confer frequently with ours, but it is absolutely impossible to gain any certain Accounts of the Subjects of these Conferences. All that is said, and all that may be written upon this Head, are mere Conjectures; there being nothing more certain, than that State are carried on here with a Secrecy that is impervious. The Situation of our Troops is a Fact not to be denied; that they have to march on Three Days Notice, is likewise a Fact not to be denied; but whether they are to march, or on what Score, is the Matter. Baron Mardefeldt, the Prussian Minister, is very positive that they are to move towards the East, in Consequence of a Secret Treaty made with the Shah Nadir. On the other hand, Baron Rosenberg is no less positive that they are to march into Germany, for the Service of the Queen of Poland, or her Allies. The Event will shew us which of the Ministers is in the right; or which is more in the wrong; since both of them are in the wrong; since the Corps of Troops had the like Orders last Year, and did not march at all; and it is highly likely they may prove the same Case this Year.

June 27. All the Discourse here turns on the great Feast given by the French Minister on the 21st of the Dauphin with the Infanta. It was in the Morning by a very solemn Te Deum sung by the Discharge of 150 small Mortars, and was concluded by a Ball, which was opened by the Second Son of the Chevalier de St. George; and every Thing was done with the utmost Magnificence and good Order. The new French Ambassador, M. de Rochefort, Archbishop of Bourges, begins to appear in Public, and on the 21st he had a long Audience of his Majesty. It is not doubted that he comes here with a Commission of Importance; since, with regard to the Affairs, no Man was more capable of managing in Concerns of his Nation, than M. Canillac. The Politicians pretend to give a shrew'd Guess at this Minister's Business; which they will needs have to be the Nuncio's being sent to the Diet of Election at Frankfort, and the usual Bull being expedited to the Catholick Electors upon that Occasion. But if this had been really the Case, the Emperor's Affairs, in a good measure needful, since it is almost evident that his Holiness is determined to take all in that Election. But whether this arises from a Desire of obliging the Crown of France, from a particular Pique to the House of Austria, or from a Policy, which inclines the Holy Father to do as much as possible, fishing in troubled Waters, no body can determine, at least with any Certainty. The King of Naples and Sicily has taken a Resolution to raise 10 or 12,000 Men, in order to reduce those that serve at present as Auxiliaries in the Army of the Count de Gages; and that they may be sent Officer'd, he has sent for 200 Subalterns from the Army, who are to serve as Captains and Lieutenants in these new-raised Troops.

from a Private Letter written by a Foreign Minister, to a Friend at the Hague, dated Cologne, July 13, 1745.

Your Intelligence was very well grounded, the Count de Stein, Vice-President of the Elector Palatine's Council, is actually arrived at the Court of Bonn; and what People say here be true, with a most wonderful Commission. In short, he is charged by the Elector, his Master, to inform the Prince at whose Court I reside, that his Countries of Neubourg and Sinsheim are entirely eat up and destroyed by the Imperial Forces; that they have levied prodigious Contributions in the Duchies of Juliers and Bergh; and that his Palatinate of the Rhine is in Danger of sharing the same Fate, unless his Electoral Highness will have the Goodness to spare him 10,000 Men of his Imperial Troops, in order to secure his Dominions; whom he is willing to pay for at what Rate the Elector shall think fit. This Minister is farther charged to negotiate a defensive Alliance between the two Electors, and their mutual Support against all their Enemies. As this News be in itself strange, it is still stranger, that as Things now stand, this Minister is extremely well received, and it is said will carry his Point. But to account for all this, I am to tell you, that there want not some who are fully persuaded that the whole of this Affair is a Mystery; that the Elector Palatine was obliged to charge his Minister with such Instructions to amuse the French; but that, in reality, his Highness is about to reconcile himself to the Court of Vienna, by the Interposition of the Elector of Cologne; which Accounts so clearly and so rationally for this, otherwise unaccountable Measure, that we really give Credit thereto, and are extremely well pleased with a Transaction, that, but a few Days ago, gave us the utmost Pain. As soon as I know any thing more with Certainty, you shall hear from me again.

WHO, to prevent the Deceits and Impositions the most Wary are liable to in the Goldsmiths
Way, from Publick SALES, AUCTIONS, &c.
(a shocking Forebode of the Destruction of Trade in general, and worthy therefore an Attention of the Legislature) has for more than Fifteen Years past, made it his principal and chief Business to deal
in Second-Hand Plate, Watches, Jewels, &c. and still continues so to do, strictly observing the Method
he first begun with, of selling at the most reasonable Prices.

And the continual Call he has for large Quantities of various Sorts of Second-Hand Plate, &c. gives him an Opportunity of affording most Money for the same; as does the very extraordinary Care he takes in employing the most experienced and best Workmen, enable him to serve with New Plate, Watches, Jewels, &c. to the greatest Satisfaction.

Certainly nothing can be a clearer Proof of the Excellency of any Commodity, than the Approbation it meets with if so.
